CASLE DALE, July 1.—Hiram Hasmussen, who has been confined to his bed the last six months with rheumatism, essayed to go to the field last Tuesday, but only to be an almost helpless spectator behind his runaway team. A nephew, Hector Peterson, was driving the team from the field when he lost his lines and, trying to regain them, lost his balance and fell to the ground. The wheels passed over his ankle, tearing all the tendons from the joint. Hiram was lying in the bed of the wagon. Seeing what had happened, he turned his attention to getting another little nephew, 4-year-old Lorin Hasmussen, out of the wagon. He had a job on his hands making the little fellow understand that the team was running away, but he was finally let to the ground, after which Hiram concerned himself with his own unloading. In his crippled condition and with the fast moving wagon it was hard to ease the fall much and he got a bad jolting when he did let loose. The team came on in good shape until they turned up the home street west of the hotel, where they ran afoul of an electric light pole and were soon calmed down with little noticeable injury to the outfit. Sam Alger went out with a car to get the boys, who were taken to the Hasmussen home, where Dr. J. M. Graham dressed their injuries.

Both have the best wishes of the whole community. The happy couple will make a short trip up state before their return here, after which they will make their home at Black Hawk, where Brandon has a contract to furnish team work.
